Hanged But at Large.

An Iowa Man Comes to Life After His Body is Given to His Friends.

The telegraph recently reported the hanging of Reuben Proctor, of Iowa, for murder. A strange story in relation to this matter is told by the Des Moines Leader, of which the following is the substance: After life had been pronounced extinct, the body was delivered to its friends. It was taken home and laid out upon the bed, and a member of the family kept watch by its side. The person fell asleep for a few hours, and upon waking observed that the features of the supposed corpse had undergone no change, and were not rigid and fixed as in death. He felt the arms and legs, and found them limp and not without a slight degree of warmth. Putting his ear in the region of the heart, he thought he could hear it faintly beating. He then took a mirror, and holding it to the lips, a slight moisture became visible on the glass. He rubbed this away and held it there again, and with like result. Again and again he repeated the experiment, and always with the same result, until he became satisfied that the moisture was the result of respiration. He then roused the rest of the family by shouting the announcement that Reuben was still alive, but not until they had examined for themselves could they be convinced of the fact. This unlocked for position of affairs threw the household into a tumult of excitement, and for a time they knew not what to do. They dared not send for medical aid, fearing that the mob might learn of it and return to make sure work a second time. At length, with such methods as suggested themselves, they set about the work of resuscitation. They rubbed the body vigorously. They threw cold water on the face. For some time they seemed to accomplish nothing, but at last a feeble groan escaped the lips; his eyes open, closed again, as if dreading to see. They spoke to him, told him he was with his friends and need have no fear. He again opened his eyes and looked about him in a curious, wondering way, and after a few attempts spoke, but with great difficulty. He did not seem to be conscious of the events of the day, and asked what had happened. They told him, and as his memory was awakened to the terrible ordeal he had undergone, a convulsive tremor shook his whole frame. What remains may be briefly told. A mock funeral was agreed upon. As was natural, the house was shunned by the neighbors, and thus contributed to the scheme there in progress. A coffin was procured, filled with dirt, and was duly consigned to the grave. A few days after, Reuben Proctor, so disguised that his own mother would not recognize him, left his home never to return.

THE IMAGINATION.—The inward man has all that belongs to the imagination—that sweet vagrant of the universe. The imagination is the inside sight. It is the foundation element of faith. It works at once with the affections and the reason, and gives them light and variety not only, but elevation, tending to hold them up, as if it were a guiding angel sent down from on high to teach the souls of men how to work towards their destiny; and who shall tell what fascinations, wh. shall write down in a book the pictures and fantasies, who shall enumerate the ten thousand new creations of the human soul under the influence of the imagination? We sit as gods. We create at times. We move at times as if on the wings of Milton's angel, over the vast abyss, viewing one form of creation or another. We can create the morning as we lie at night. We can create the sound of birds although we are far from them. In the midst of winter we can create summer; and in summer we can cool ourselves by thoughts of winter. We can bring the distant past and the far-off future into the present. We can live a most beautiful and creative life by the powers of the imagination.—Henry Ward Beecher.

A representative named Woods has succeeded in passing a resolution authorizing investigation into the departments. These investigations will cost more than the market price of Mr. Woods' head.

That Low-Cut Dress.

Mary Clemmer Reiterates Her Criticism on Miss Kellogg's Dress.

"Mary Clemmer," in the Boston Herald, reiterates her criticism on the stage dress of Clara Louise Kellogg:

"Now I 'insinuated' nothing against

Clara Louise Kellogg; I would scorn

to 'insinuate' anything against any woman living. I simply asserted that

Miss Kellogg, on the platform of a concert room, was less modestly

dressed than Aimee, in La Marguerite

of opera bouffe, and I assert this still. I also said that nakedness is not any purer at a party, or in a concert room than it is in opera bouffe,

or in Lydia Thompson's troupe, and I say this again. I am not a prude, and don't believe it to be the duty of a beautiful woman to wear her corsage

to her ears, or her sleeves to her thumbs. There is a happy mean in which nature's matchless curves may be defined without vulgarity. But when a woman verging on forty bends

over her piano with no dress to speak of above her waist, and, with the air

and attitude of coquette of sixteen,

cries to a thousand people, 'Beware!

beware!' she presents a picture at which some women blush, for which no money can pay, and which Lydia

Thompson herself never outdid.

Pacific Coast Failures.

In Arizona the total liabilities for 1877 was $54,000, with $51,400 in assets, as against $8,000 in liabilities add $3,000 in assets for 1876. Idaho merchants who failed last year had $46,000 liabilities and $36,100 assets, while for 1875 the liabilities were $30,500 and the assets $15,000. Nevada shows a total of liabilities equal to $659,736, and assets to $285,147. The record of the same State for the previous year was, liabilities $206,167, assets $82,450. In California the liabilities in 1877 were $11,735,679, assets $7,886,268; for the preceding year the liabilities were only $3,877,678, and the assets $2,073,678.

In the above estimates, taken from R. G. Dun & Co's interesting book of Pacific Coast Failures, no account is taken of the numerous mining stock failures. Should these be added the list would be fully doubled. We are a speculative people, and must pass through a long experience before we shall become more cautious and less inclined to speculate. We will deal in stocks. Even those who complain most of stock gambling do not resist the temptation. A little more of the leaven of business honesty and less ignorant dealing in mining stocks, especially wild-cat stock, would have a marked effect in decreasing the number of business failures. We know less of the causes producing failures in the other States, but there one also finds speculation rife and competition on every hand.

Peace Indications.

The Russo-Turkish war, as it now appears, is fast drawing to a close.

Russia is everywhere victorious, and the Turks are broken down. Great distress prevails among the thousands of Turkish fugitives. England can not do anything for the Porte because of the jealousy of other powers and the divided sentiment at home. She has, however, sent a number of war vessels to the Levant. But, if these vessels come to Constantinople, Germany and Italy will also send ships of war to the Bosphorus. Russia and the Porte have already taken steps to secure a cessation of hostilities, and establish the ground work for the securement of peace. Russia commands

the situation, and is able to secure pretty much her own terms. We may not look for immediate peace, as Russia is not by any means anxious to propitiate this desirable result. The Roumanians talk of refusing to submit to an armistice, unless it is separately arranged with them. Diplomats very skillfully delay war matters until their terms are complied with. But the Eastern war-cloud is lifting, and the golden rays of peace

promise soon to shine on the rich

principalties of the Danube.

To-day discussion on Bland's Silver Bill was resumed in Congress. The South and West for the most part favor this bill. It is also strongly supported by a number of Congressmen from the Northern and Eastern States. The principle difficulty in the way of its passage is the free coinage clause, but, without this clause, the bill would be comparatively worthless. The Pacific Coast members recognize the fact that its passage would greatly redound to the interests of this Coast. Nor are there any sufficient reasons why the Government bonds should not be paid in silver, or at least in silver and gold.

The Silver State thinks that Controller Hobart is politically squelched.

Communicated.

EDITOR GAZETTE: As each succeeding term of the District Court is convened, the farcical operation of selecting a Grand Jury takes place. Of course the selection is made under the law, from the taxpayers of our county, regardless of political proclivities or any other features objectionable to the powers that be. They are made in the interest of the county, of course, or are supposed to be. It is true, some sore-headed, base ingrates assert, that a job is put up and the same Grand Jurors, or a large part of them, are, at each succeeding term, regularly sworn in, etc.—representative men—men of large influence, that, like potter's clay, easily mould to suit the most fastidious taste of the governing power. Some have friends to protect; others, enemies to punish. Good men and true (!) they examine into wrong doing in all departments and indict parties from presumptive evidence of guilt. Our Grand Jurors, some say, ignore this principle. Be that as it may, it is clearly the case that none but those "on the inside" are ever allowed to act as Grand Jurors, except in isolated cases when a stray outsider will be wrung in like a "cold deck" and used like a stray chicken in a flock of hens. So say the growlers, and you hear it on every hand in all parts of the county.

The querier has often been made, why it was that the Grand Jury's report of the last term of Court was not published. Echo answers, why? Give us a new deal and try an entirely new set, just for a change—that is, if it can be done under the law—and see if we cannot get an examination and report of the county finances and other matters of interest to the county, from a Grand Jury who are neither bondsmen for county officials nor hold any other position of antagonism to our material interests.

J. W. Rover.

Significant Deposition—Rover to be Hanged.

Rover has so often been brought before the public that most readers are tired of hearing his name mentioned by the press. Very soon, however, the public will hear little said of him against whom the sentence of death now rests. Therefore, if we ask your attention, gentle reader, for a moment, we trust not to weary you if we do not interest you.

By request of the poor fellow we called to see him, Rover was lying in one of the cells upon a prison bed; his face wore a haggard look. Care and wearing, painful thought have made their impress upon his eye, cheek and mouth. A half-crazed, half-dying, and shall we add, altogether guilty man, lay before us. We felt not like criticising the law, yet our pity and the charity common to us all, were silently exercised for one whom the law had said must expire by his very life a crime strongly yet mysteriously corroborated by circumstantial evidence.

Rover, partly raising himself from his bed, said: "I see in your paper that my attorney, W. S. Bonnifield, has stated in the Silver State that McWorthy had been accused of a number of flagrant crimes, and had years ago, in California, even committed murder." Then drawing from beneath his pillow a letter he continued: "Read that deposition which I received this morning from Truckee; you will find in it a confirmation of Bonnifield's article." The deposition we found to have been taken in due form by an attorney in Truckee, sworn to before a notary public, and is the deposition of Thos. M. Kiles. In substance it is as follows:

"I have known McWorthy and Sharp [W. F. McWorthy was the principal witness for the State, L. N. Sharp, the murdered man] since 1854; was acquainted with them at the town of Alpha, in Nevada county, California. In the Fall of 1855 a vigilance committee was organized in Alpha, and Sharp and McWorthy were both members of this committee. Prior to December, 1855, McWorthy was implicated in three murders, viz: That of H. Stine, killed in the early part of the Summer of 1854; Sam Harrison, killed in the Spring of 1855, and Joseph Royce, killed in November, 1855. The killing of Royce was chargeable directly to the acts and conduct of McWorthy. The citizens of Alpha wanted McWorthy to leave the town, and a committee from the vigilance organization—of which organization Sharp was Captain and chief executive officer—and of which committee he was a member, went to McWorthy Dec. 31, 1855, and ordered him to leave town. McWorthy did so, but some four weeks thereafter had several members of the vigilance committee arrested and tried in Nevada City, where they were acquitted."

The State Board of Pardons met today, but Rover's case was not presented before the Board. In a few days the remittitur in his case will be sent from the Supreme Court to the officers of the Second Judicial District Court, and the latter Court will thereupon fix the day for Rover's execution. We find it quite difficult to express an opinion in this unique case. He has had four long trials and has been in prison since April, 1875. Very strong, connected circumstantial evidence points to his guilt. Yet a number of persons more or less conversant with the case seem to think that McWorthy is the more guilty man of the two. We hold to the opinion that Rover should, with all respect to the verdict of three juries, be sent to the State Prison for life. Further trial of his case would be absurd.

The Riverside club met last evening at Bender's bank, and elected the following officers for the ensuing term of three months: Pres. W. R. Chamberlain; Vice Pres., J. F. Alexander; Secretary, Pierce Evans. An assessment of $1 50 was levied to pay the expenses of the next party which will be held Feb. 8th. The next party will be a summer dance. Calico will then take a benefit.

Rev. S. Monroe Hubbard, will preach in the Baptist Church of this city, each evening of this week. Services commence at 7 o'clock. Subject for this evening, "The Priceless Treasure. All are cordially invited to attend.

Jottings.

Several law cases were heard this afternoon in the District Court.

Harry Vance yesterday killed a large wild cat near Mayberry's.

The weather clerk is sending his agents ahead signaling an approaching fall of rain or snow. We wish them success.

The Grand Jury are quietly at work on several cases, and also in inspecting the records and official acts of the different county officers.

The committees for the more perfect and complete organization of the fire department have been appointed. It will soon be in order to hear from these committees.

S. S. Grass, ex-District Attorney of Humboldt county, is in town. He is subpoenaed as a witness for Washoe County in the pending suit between this county and Humboldt.

The case of Washoe Co. vs Humboldt Co., did not come up for trial to-day in the District Court, having been postponed by counsel until next Thursday the 17th.

You have bought your ticket for the grand party to be given next Thursday night in Peter Markers Hall, Washoe? This installation party will be a splendid affair.

A rather amusing fight occurred in Barnett Bros. store last Sunday morning. Geo. B. Hill and Tom Barnett got into a quarrel over a lawsuit, and ended this little dispute by a fisticuff. Hill was arrested, plead guilty to a simple assault, and was fined $10, which he paid.

A very interesting session of the lyceum is anticipated this evening. The civil service of President Hayes and the Army Bill will be discussed. Several gentlemen, we understand, have prepared speeches. Let not a little rain, ladies and gentlemen, keep you away.

Coming to the Front.

From Mr. J. E. Jones who has just returned from Pyramid, we learn the following items of interest in reference to the Jones & Kinkead mine. The main shaft is down 337 feet. From the 300-foot level a cross cut has been run east and west. In the east drift, seven feet of ore has been cut through which yields average assays of $1 93. The selected ore assays $84. The bottom of the shaft is in low-grade ore which contains considerable iron. Water has also made its appearance in the bottom of the shaft, but as yet is not in any considerable quantity. The owners say that there is now no question but what they have a good mine. One evidence further confirming this belief is that the black rock found at the bottom of the shaft becomes richer as the shaft is sunk deeper. Assays made yesterday show it to contain $10 ore, two dollars of which is gold. Mr. Jones says that he would not be in the least surprised should he find a considerable body of rich ore which would yield $1,000 to the ton. Messrs. Jones & Kinkead own about two-thirds of the mine which is divided into 100,000 shares.

PERSONALS.—John Mackay, Seth Cook, U. S. Grant, Jr. and several other notables passed west on last evening's train. A number of persons were at the train to see young Grant. They also witnessed the young blood devour oysters at Louis', and to their astonishment they found that he ate as other men, only that from having a long neck he seemed to enjoy his Eastern fry, better than a short-neck man can possibly do. Grant is assistant city attorney of N. Y. City, and is visiting this Coast on business. Mackay kindly took him in charge last night. A telegram from Emigrant Gap to one of the last evening's spectators says: Grant Jr. sleeps well and in all probability will arrive in San Francisco in good condition.

Ralph A. Wells of the New York Herald, also advance agent for Dr. Spinney was in town Sunday. Ralph is a jolly fellow, don't drink, smokes awkwardly and tells interesting stories of Stanly et al. E. J. Parkinson of the Carson Tribune made his customary Sunday call, on none of your business. Why?

GRAND JURY.—The Grand Jury came into Court this afternoon and through its Foreman C. A. Bragg, made a partial report ignoring the charge of murder against Wm. Phillips and also the charge of misdemeanor against Louis Reichart. The prisoners were consequently set at liberty.
